IN COLLABORATION WITH THAICOSDERM*

SATURDAY OCTOBER 17, 2020

WELCOME TO THE LIVE ONLINE EDITION

After careful consideration, IMCAS is postponing the full IMCAS Asia congress to 2021. We are taking this year instead as our chance to showcase our digital skills.

IMCAS is honored to present the IMCAS Asia Class 2020, a ONE-DAY CLASS taking place on an IMCAS-original platform with LIVESTREAMS of all sessions along with LIVE 1-ON-1 or group chats and live polls to stimulate INTERACTIONS.

The teaching formats are restructured & redesigned so that the international speakers can deliver the core essentials in plastic surgery & minimally invasive procedures in real-time for an active learning event that peaks your curiosity and captivates your attention.

Follow the LIVESTREAMS of the ultimate anatomy course featuring cadaver dissections to elaborate on the key structures for safe injections during the Cadaver Workshops on Channel 1. Get the updated anatomical studies, techniques and devices for threads treatments, hair restoration, lasers & EBD on Channel 2. Find step-by-step video tutorials covering the key maneuvers in face, breast & body surgeries for Surgery sessions on Channel 3. Don't miss the LIVE SHOW with IMCAS that airs on Channel 4 with world-renowned experts hosting live interviews, debates and other exclusive content for an even more enriching learning experience.

We hope you'll be part of the event that will revolutionize VIRTUAL LEARNING.

ANATOMY ON CADAVER WORKSHOP

The Cadaver Workshops are IMCAS-classic sessions led by renowned anatomists and distinguished experts who, through a combination of cadaver dissections and live patient demonstrations, present both the anatomy and techniques for injectables and threads.

4 hours of these intensive anatomy workshops await you during IMCAS Asia Class. Here's a sneak peek of how the depth Cadaver Workshop brings to your practice:

“A procedure that is very common and highly on-demand for facial rejuvenation is orbital injections. The infraorbital area is quick to show sign of aging as the anterior face drops down and the ligaments become very prominent, a process we call the infraorbital hollowing. For an area that easily shows signs of aging, the procedure to restore is actually quite tricky because the anatomy is tricky.

But if you go into the injection procedure without a thorough review of your anatomy beforehand, your filler injection may result in visible nodules, lumps, bumps or even the skin turning slightly blue, what we call the Tyndall effect.

Why? There are only 3 anatomical layers in the tear trough: (1) very thin skin, (2) very thin muscle – actually there is the insertion of the muscle, that is a tendon with the fusion of the zygomatic cutaneous ligaments and orbicularis retaining ligaments – and (3) the bone. There is no fat! So, when I inject I place my product as close as possible to the bone because otherwise everything will be visible. I also use a very small amount because I don't have so much to lift, just to smoothen this area.”

WHAT ARE THEY SAYING ABOUT OUR DIGITAL EDITION IN 2020

"The cadaver workshop was great! It was even better than the actual class when only the doctors who positioned themselves in front can see clearly. The Aesthetic Anatomy Injection Class was very informative and helped me update my techniques and build more confidence in doing the procedures for better results and safer techniques. The virtual anatomy course has been a success and I'm glad to have been a part of it."

Dr Pauline LIM-RAMOS, MD, Philippines

"I always wanted to attend IMCAS, but could not till now due to time restrain. Virtual classes gave me flexibility and time to attend at my comfort without missing my practice. Virtual classes gave the opportunity for everyone to see the demonstration closely, unlike in real classes where only those near to instructor get to see."

Dr Jameel ISMAIL, Dermatologist, Qatar

"I think that IMCAS Academy is very beneficial for both young and experienced plastic surgeons because we gain access to new information, and our patients can benefit from the latest treatments in the field. Thankful that I can access all these resources. New information leads to more efficient treatment methods!"

Dr Dragos George POPA, Facial plastic surgeon, Romania

"I just cannot praise the Academy enough for the amazing work. I have really enjoyed the Injectables webinars and I am looking forward to experience more of them."

Dr Ana Gabriela HOCHFELD, Dermatologist, Germany
